

Crimes Against Humanity in North Korea

By: Caroline Smith

Thesis Statement: Eventhough the U.N. is changing their strategies, the North Korean regime continues to commit crimes against humanity because they believe that the Korean War isn't over.

-Citizens of North Korea accused of crime can be kept in prison camps
-can be guilty by association
-crimes against humanity include:

- right to food
- torture and inhuman treatment
- arbitrary detention
- discrimination
- freedom of expression
- the right to life
- freedom of movement

- abduction

- Kim Jong-Un, leader of North Korea, arrests people who threaten his power
- causing protests in South Korea